

If you were to imagine an angel to represent the spirit of Brighton and Hove, what would they be like? Join us for a free poetry writing workshop with award winning poet Dean Atta to help you use your imagination and life experience to write a poem in celebration of the City - all that you love about it, all the good you see in it and all the hope you have for it.

Angels in our City: Free Poetry Workshop with Dean Atta

12-1.30 pm
on Friday
July 27th, 2018
It's a free event
at The Jubilee Library

This workshop is organised by New Writing South in support of the Interfaith Contact Group's Angels in the City competition. The finalists in the contest will be included in a published book on the Angel of Brighton & Hove. Winners are awarded £50 and will have their creations displayed in the Jubilee library.

www.interfaithcontactgroup.com

The Brighton & Hove
Interfaith Contact Group

Supported by

Brighton & Hove
City Council